OFFICIAL PAPER OF MONTANA AND
LEWIS AND CLARKE COUNTY.

The INDEPENDENT has a larger daily circulation than any newspaper between St. Paul and Portland and a larger circulation than any other two daily papers published in Montana. It has no press room secrets; its subscription books are open to inspection, and it is always ready to prove that its circulation is as represented.

Entered at the Postoffice at Helena as second-class matter.

The Dakota legislature is coming to Helena to celebrate the passage of the territorial admission bill, arriving here Friday afternoon. Without doubt the hospitalities of the city will be freely extended. It was on the program that the Montana legislature should go to Great Falls on that day, which is the anniversary of Washington's birth; but in view of the coming of the Dakotas it may be deemed advisable to extend the excursion and remain here to extend a suitable greeting.

His appearance in the Helena organ of the next administration of a portrait and biographical sketch of John C. New makes it certain that Mr. New will be a member of Gen. Harrison's cabinet. For particulars as to Mr. New's integrity apply to Walter Q. Gresham, judge of the Seventh United States district court, who was not consulted in the construction of the Helena organ's biography. To maintain a perfect balance in the cabinet now it will be necessary to have at least two Wanamakers to represent the Sunday school section of the republican party.

During the present legislative session the report of the regular proceedings of the council has been furnished to the INDEPENDENT by Mr. Will Kennedy the member from Jefferson county. During this time he has written not another line for the paper, suggesting nothing, and furnished no information which could not be obtained by any other reporter. One member of the council having expressed on the floor of the chamber yesterday a suspicion that Mr. Kennedy was the source of information improper for a member to divulge, Mr. Kennedy has notified the INDEPENDENT that he can no longer furnish the regular report, and the proceedings will hereafter be taken by another reporter. The editor of the INDEPENDENT takes this occasion to say that Mr. Kennedy's reports have been eminently conservative and accurate, and entirely satisfactory to this journal.

REPUBLICAN KNOWNOTHING.
The debate in the territorial house of representatives on Tuesday upon the bill creating the office of mine inspector showed conclusively the attitude of republicans towards foreign-born citizens. The theory of American citizenship is that, except as the presidency, a person of foreign birth who swears allegiance to this government, makes his home here and keeps the laws of the country is upon the same footing as those who were born on the soil of America. But in spite of this a republican member of the house sought to have engrained upon the bill under consideration a provision that only an American-born citizen should be eligible to the office to be created. His remarks in support of the proposition fairly bristled with insults to foreign-born citizens and imputations against members of trades unions. The latter, according to Mr. Moore, were not to be trusted in anything that partook at all of the nature of a conflict between labor and capital. "The pope's Irish," as Mr. Moore termed a considerable element of the foreign-born citizens of this country, came in for a share in his condemnation, while the miners from Cornwall, Germany and France were set down as unfit to have any part in the government of the country with which they have cast their lot. Mr. Moore's utterances were endorsed in a mild way by Mr. Joslyn, also from Deer Lodge, and a republican member, who had something to say about the clanishness of miners of foreign birth, and who erroneously stated, as the facts will show, that none but an Irish-born miner had any chance to procure work in the Anaconda mines.

The views of these gentlemen represent the sentiment of a large portion of the republican party. They differ from most of their colleagues in that they have for once at least spoken their minds. The republican party is the know-nothing party of the day. It will be well for foreign-born citizens to remember the debate in the Montana house of representatives on Feb. 19, upon the bill to create the office of mine inspector.

A REPUBLICAN QUARREL.
The New York World of the 15th inst. has a Washington letter which gives a circumstantial account of the manner in which the trade was made by which Mr. Blaine secured a position in the Harrison cabinet. The story in brief is that a day or two before the Chicago convention Stephen B. Elkins, who was Blaine's manager, held a consultation with Thomas C. Platt, who controlled the New York delegation but had no candidate definitely fixed upon. Mr. Elkins represented that in the face of Blaine's Paris letter it would not be advisable to nominate him, and proposed a compromise with Platt, whose hostility to Blaine is well known, by which the two factions should have representation in the cabinet and control the distribution of patronage in the event of the election of the republican nominee. The availability of the several candidates was canvassed. When Harrison's name was mentioned Platt said, bluntly: "Harrison is not to be trusted. He fought both Cunkling and myself at the time of our trouble with Garfield, and he has always trained with the Pecksniffian class of politicians. He is out of the question." But Elkins was obdurate, and Platt set to work pipe-laying for Gen. Alger. Then Elkins set out for Indianapolis, assuring Platt that Harrison would make everything right. At Indianapolis Elkins proposed that if Harrison would contract to give Blaine the secretaryship of state the Blaine influence at the proper time would be thrown in his favor, intimating that he would also control the New York delegation through Messrs. Platt and Hiseock if they were guaranteed the control of the office in their state. Gen. Harrison acceded to the terms proposed, and at Elkins' suggestion gave him a note to Platt saying: "I have talked with Elkins and agree to what he suggests." Delivering this to Platt, Elkins gave him to understand that he (Platt) was to have the naming of the secretary of the treasury, as well as to control the federal appointments in the state. With this understanding Platt fell in with the Elkins plan. After the election Elkins was among the first to call upon Gen. Harrison, and improved the occasion to obtain a renewal of the promise as regarded Blaine, but said nothing about Platt. The treasury portfolio will go to the west, and New York will be put off with the secretaryship of agriculture, which is to be given to Platt's enemy, Warner Miller. Platt and his friends are correspondingly sore. They are busy circulating the report, which they claim is well based, that it is Harrison's intention to reduce the position of his cabinet officers to a merely clerical level, with the intention of forcing out Blaine, making all selections for office himself, through such men as the first assistant-postmaster-general.

Altogether the outlook is far from pacific. Blaine is not likely to permit himself to be made a mere figurehead, and already the course of Mr. Elkins has antagonized the Platt element, with a prospect for a widening of the breach.

THE ADAMSON BILL ADOPTED.
Both houses of congress yesterday adopted the amended bill for the admission of the union of the territories of Dakota, (as two states), Montana and Washington, and now all that remains, in order that the bill have effect, is that it shall receive the signature of the president. All is now plain sailing, for there is scarcely a possibility that the bill will encounter a veto. The Associated Press dispatch in yesterday's INDEPENDENT inaccurately stated that state officers would be chosen at the first balloting upon the adoption or rejection of the constitution of 1884, on May 14. The dispatch printed on the first page of today's issue agrees with the INDEPENDENT's Washington special printed on Sunday, and shows that the May balloting shall be upon the ratification or rejection of the constitution and for delegates to a constitutional convention to assemble July 4. Provided the constitution is ratified, as it doubtless will be, the convention's revision (limited to the alterations prescribed by the admission act) is to be submitted to a vote of the people the Tuesday after the first Monday in October, and then state officers and members of the legislature are to be chosen the Tuesday after the first Monday in November. The voters of Montana will, therefore, have occasion to exercise their privileges early and often during this year, and to the professional politician the year 1889 will be "one continual round of pleasure."

A Costly Rebuke.
New York World: Ex-Senator Windom, as secretary of the treasury, would be a spectacle for the contemplation of the Montana Tickers of American Finance. Mr. Windom is the nephew of a score of American entrepreneurs. He is the promoter of ex-Senator Dorey's great schemes for the abolition of poverty. His name is identified with at least a dozen corporations which cast gloomy shadows over the field of speculation. To go west for such a financier in order to disappoint Wall Street and equip New York would be, to say the least, something unique in statesmanship.

Will Paint the Town Red.
Electricity will be employed to lighten the dazzling effect of the display at Harrison's inaugural. There will be a grand cascade of fire 550 feet long and fifty feet high, "falling from posts to the ground, like a mighty Niagara of gold, and uttering a tremendous roar." Ten tons of materials will be burned and Pennsylvania avenue lighted from end to end with auriferous fire.

On Washington.
During the "late unpleasantness" the motto was "On to Richmond!" Now the cry is, "On to Washington!" To witness the inauguration of Gen. Harrison on the 4th of March. The display on that occasion will surpass in magnificence any previous inaugurations. To the point of view of the west, "The Burlington" offers a rate of one fare for the round trip, from all stations. The elegant equipment, superb track, and the fact that it is already being selected by the Minneapolis & St. Paul club and their friends for the Washington journey. Tickets will be on sale at all stations from Feb. 20 to March 2, inclusive, good to leave Washington on the return trip up to the evening of March 3. For tickets, rates and any information call on your local ticket agent, or address W. J. C. Kenyon, general passenger agent, St. Paul.

The great majority of so-called cough cures do little more than irritate the digestive functions and create bile. Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, on the contrary, while it cures the cough, does not interfere with the functions of either stomach or liver.

Winter Excursions to California.
On the 15th day of every month the Northern Pacific Railroad company will sell excursion tickets to San Francisco and return at $75; to Los Angeles and return, $94. These tickets have an extreme limit of six months from date of issuance, and can be used going any time within sixty (60) days from date of sale. Stop-overs at any point desired—either going or returning—within limit of ticket. Excursionists have choice of two routes from Portland—by steamer, or by rail, via the famous Mount Shasta route.
Bear in mind that the Northern Pacific is the only line running through sleeping and dining cars to the Pacific coast.
A. L. STOKES, General Agent.

The following from the pen of Mr. M. P. Birdwell, editor of the Marion (Iowa) Pilot, will, we believe, be of interest to many of our readers. He says: "It is with pleasure that I certify to the real merits of Chamberlain's Cough Remedy. I have used it in my family for years and have always found it most excellent, and especially for colds, croup and sore throat. It is safe and effective." For sale by H. M. Parnell.

"The Great Florida Route." This is the verdict of all who have gone to Florida and the south over the "Line," which is the only route running solid trains through Chicago, La Fayette, Indianapolis and Cincinnati, and making connections in Central Union Depot, Cincinnati, with trains of the Queen & Crescent Route for the south and southeast. Equipment unequalled. Accommodations unsurpassed.
